Point Richmond History Association Meeting, May 18, 2008 at the Point Richmond Community Center, 139 Washington Avenue.

Historical Plaques Report
The Frosini Plaque was dedicated in June of 2007, with a party and speeches. The Catholic Church Plaque was installed on Thanksgiving Day of 2007 and blessed by Father O’Rouke.
The Richmond Supply Company/Point Richmond History Association Plaque was not ready for this meeting. It should be finished this month.
A plaque in honor of the Wig Wags is in the design stage.
A plaque to honor the Trainmaster Building is also being designed.

The Historical Plaque Program is ongoing. Anyone interested in designing a plaque or having one designed for their building, please call Pat Pearson at 510-234-2532 for details of the program.

The Slate of Officers
The slate of officers was presented and elected unanimously. The Officers are Mildred Dornan, President, Patricia Pearson 1st Vice President, Jerry Cerkanowicz, 2nd Vice President, Tom Piazza, Secretary, Sonja Darling Treasurer, Mary Highfill Corresponding Secretary.

Board Members
Pamela Wilson, Membership, Gary Shows, TPIT Editor, Bonnie Jo Cullison, Archives, Margaret Morkowski, Staff Coordinator, Thomas Mercer-Hursh, TPIT Photos and Design.

Mrs. Pearson announced that Donna Roselius, founder of the Point Richmond History Association, was honored with a trophy at the City of Richmond’s Historic Preservation Awards Ceremony on May 12th, at the Richmond Museum of History. Also honored from Point Richmond were the Point Richmond Gateway Foundation for restoration of the Santa Fe Reading Room and the designer of the Point Richmond Walking Tour Brochure.

The Point Richmond History Association presented a Certificate of Recognition to the Women’s West Side Improvement Club in honor of its 100th Anniversary. The award was accepted by President Margaret Morkowski on behalf of the members, many of whom were present.

The Program “Growing Up in the Point”
The Program, was titled “Growing Up in the Point. The panel consisted of Betty Dornan, Bruce Bartram, George (LeRoy) Williams and Mary Bianchini Highfill, moderator was Patricia Bill Pearson.

Please read Margaret Morkowski’s report on the program on page 18 and log onto our website www.pointrichmondhistory.com to listen to an audio of the program.

The wonderful presentation was followed by refreshments and visiting time.

Reported by Patricia Bill Pearson
At last, after twenty-seven years, Donna Roselius, founder of our Point Richmond History Association, has been recognized and honored. Richmond’s Historic Preservations Advisory Committee presented awards to recipients on Monday, May 12th, at the Richmond Museum of History. The Advisory Committee recognizes the importance of preserving many areas of Richmond’s rich history. Donna came down from Port Orford, Oregon, where she now resides, to accept the large glass R-Shaped award at the gala reception. Her first book, “THIS POINT...in time an historic view of Point Richmond”, is in its second printing and available at our museum or by mail.

Also honored were the Point Richmond Gateway Foundation, Richmond Chamber of Commerce, and the Richmond City Council for preservation support. The National Park Service presented a special honor to Donna Graves for her work establishing the Rosie the Riveter Memorial and other areas of Richmond History.

The Point Richmond History Association is delighted to see action by this committee which was organized eight years ago when Rosemary Corbin was Mayor. Rosemary is a charter member of the PRHA.

Little China dinner celebration of Donna Roselius’ award.

Volume XXVII-1, Summer, 2008
First glance tells you that the theme of this issue is the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge. Thanks to Thomas Mercer-Hursh for assembling and enhancing our historic bridge photos.

Once again I want to encourage you to share your old pictures of Point Richmond with us. We have built an impressive collection of historic Point photos. If you have pictures that you would like to share please call me or drop them by the museum. I will scan them, make them a permanent part of our growing collection and return the originals over to you. Not only will you share your photos but your name will be attached to your photos for posterity to see. You can see hundreds of them at our website www.pointrichmondhistory.org. I hope to add more over the summer.

Thank you to Sonny Jackson for historic Point Richmond postcards and photos also to the family of Forrest J. Simoni for a collection of Mr. Simoni’s items of interest while he was Assessor, Tax Collector and City Manager. I will have them ready for display soon.

Well, see you again in September, everyone have a great summer!

The deadline for contributions to the next issue is August 29, 2008.

Answer: One thousand. (thanks to Linda Newton for question)
We’re going green! A local Federally-sponsored group, working with PG&E, has come up with a grant/proposal to provide us with energy-efficient light bulbs. Plans for the change are forthcoming. Also conserving energy, instead of using the dryer, Father now has a clothesline. When he arrived here five years ago, there were bars on the rectory windows and the gardens were overgrown. Through his efforts, the bars came down, and the garden cleaned up, allowing the roses to become the focal point.

All parishioners received an easy-to-understand copy of the parish financial report with the diocese receiving the more detailed copy. For those interested in viewing the diocese copy, it is posted in the church entryway.

Father found time for a little R&R in Hawaii. He has a trip to Sicily planned in the fall. He had considered driving to visit his Santa Barbara family, but the price of gas kept him here. He never ceases to amaze us with his culinary skills, which always result in a parish potluck. Phone service at the rectory was recently out due to faulty wiring. It took several AT&T technicians to complete the repair.

Many parishioners and family members paid tribute to Diane Siegmund’s retirement as church secretary. Diane was a very substantial part of the glue that held the parish together, to say nothing of making all the parts work. They went from keeping the books, to organizing the annual parish barbecues, decorating the church for the holidays and the rest of the year. She was instrumental in offering crucial information to Father, as a newcomer, and she showed him the way. Diane was presented with a weekend for two at Meadowood. We wish Diane the best as she puts on a new hat as caregiver for her grandchildren.

Joining in Diane’s retirement, husband, Fred has retired after 32 years with Chevron. Fred – you don’t know what a tremendous time you are in for, except that time will pass more rapidly during retirement.

We welcome Patti Callahan, who will take over for Diane. Thanks are extended to Katherine and Michael Workman for staging Diane’s event.

Our Lady of Mercy occupied a spot in Pt. Richmond’s annual stroll. A special mass was offered on Mother’s Day and three youngsters received their First Holy Communion. It was the 100th anniversary of Mother’s Day, which was started by a woman who was not a mother. The Bishop has announced that the sacrament of Confirmation will be held at the new cathedral. Many adults have not been confirmed. If you are interested, please contact Father.

The heat wave we endured bent the altar candles into “J’s” – could that be J for Jesus?

We welcome Tom Boone as a new acolyte. If you are interested in joining the “working for God” group, we are always looking for new members. Don’t be shy – volunteer! Our support of the Souper Kitchen is also looking for additional volunteers.

Both of the Small Christian Communities continue to meet. The day group meets once a month and the evening group meets on Wednesday evenings. All are invited to attend. It is a worthwhile learning experience.

The parish continues to host its pancake breakfasts on the third Sunday of each month. For $8 you get pancakes, sausage, bacon, eggs, fruit and beverage, as well as a raffle.

A standing ovation for those who handle the kitchen detail.

Dody Perry fell and broke her leg, putting her in a care facility for a while. She is due to return home soon. The Workman family enjoyed an Alaskan cruise taken to celebrate Michael’s retirement from Chevron.

Les Lawrence and his wife are house guests of Jim and Florence Wilson. Les is a former Pt. Richmond neighbor now residing in Oregon.

A basket for hotel/motel samples has been placed in the entryway to the church. They will be distributed to those in temporary residence in the Souper Kitchen facility.

Continue to remember in your prayers: Dody Perry, Jack Healy, Shirley Gerk, Frankie Mello, Theresa Meneghelli, Bill Smith, Charlie Rosier and Al Frosini.

Don’t forget to vote on June 3 – see you at the polls.

her faith story as part of the service on April 27. Jennifer is a PhD student of History at UC Davis and an accomplished cello player. We are a better congregation due to our enthusiastic new members!

The Junktique Sale on May 3 was a great success due to the efforts of more than thirty volunteers, many generous donors, and satisfied buyers. Delicious homemade lunch items were a big hit: late-comers missed out on JoAnn Bray’s chili, Florence Wilson’s minestrone soup, Mid Dornan’s hotdogs, and Helen Valentine’s pie by the slice. Betty Graham and Fran Smith chaired this year’s event. Betty Graham, Bill Thompson, Diane Frye, Linda Andrew-Marshall and others worked in advance to make the event successful. Luckily, some of our college set returned to help: Aaron and Michael Marshall and Liam Thompson were welcome faces! The sales at Junktique and “Junktique II,” the Masquers’ Memorial Day yard sale, really help keep the doors open at our church. The Memorial Day sale will feature Boy Scout Recipe pancake breakfast from 8:00 until 10:30 or when the batter is gone.

If you missed Pastor Dan’s concert of gospel songs, hymns and spirituals on May 18, a CD recording will be available soon titled Come Away to the Skies. More than sixty people reveled in the sound of Dan’s rendition of old hymns, many from the Southern Harmony early American hymnal. The audience breathed and swallowed quietly, so the quality of the recording should be superb. Many who attended requested a future event with a similar selection of songs in a sing-along format, but all were pleased to have had a chance to really listen.

The church had a table at the Point Richmond Stroll on May 15. We gave away cookies, brownies, and fliers; had a poster for Pastor Dan’s concert; and offered a drawing for free pies. Five bakers volunteered to give away pies to seven winners! Record heat the day of the stroll may have discouraged people from attending, but a gentle breeze and the welcome shade of the trees on the Triangle made the setting more comfortable than home.

Our board voted to endorse the Prevention of Farm Animal Cruelty Act, written to ensure animals raised for meat in California are not treated cruelly. The Act will appear on the ballot in November 2008, and requires a “yes” vote to support it. Norma Wallace provided the impetus to sign us on as endorsers.

The mission committee, chaired by Helen Wysham, collected dry cereal for residents at the GRIP Family Shelter on Mothers’ Day, and plans to recruit walkers and donors for the “Harmony Walk to End Hunger and Homelessness” scheduled for October 11. GRIP’s goal is to collect $100,000 from the walk.

Christine Silva-Netto adds a new dimension to the Angel Choir: she meets with them weekly to choreograph the songs they sing. Angel Choir members suggest ways to best convey the message of the music through movement, and a dance evolves. The result has been to better connect the choir and congregation to the spirit of the music. It is clear to see Christine and the Angel Choir are happy with the new format.

Diane Frye meets with six young women on Mondays at the church for a sewing class. Students have learned to use a sewing machine; select patterns, fabric and notions; and sew their own projects. They enjoy the time to learn and practice a new skill and the time together to chat. What a gift Diane has given to them!

More landscaping improvements: Patrick McMahon, artist of Rocksolid Landscaping, replaced the steps with a concrete ramp next to Friendship Hall and installed a flagstone and decomposed granite surface in front of the parsonage. These improvements, coupled with the new courtyard, have really added a fresh look to the yard.

Summer Calendar 2008:

Sunday mornings:
9:00 a.m. to 9:40 a.m.: Service of music, prayer and meditation. Fragrance free, candle free, and sermon free.
10:00 a.m.: Adult Sunday School (Children’s classes take a break in the summer). 11:00 a.m.: Service of worship with music, prayer, children’s time, and sermon.

June 8, classical pianist Peggy Salkind performs at 5:00 p.m. followed by a reception to dedicate the Ross Parmer Memorial Courtyard.

June 15: Fathers’ Day Jazz service, 11:00 a.m. This service will be all music (no sermon, honest!) and features the Dan Damon quartet, both choirs, and several soloists.

August 4-8: Vacation Bible School, 9:00 to 11:30 a.m. Kids ages three through sixth grade will enjoy the music, art, food, stories, games and activities of this popular summer event. Call Jean Reynolds, (510) 235-2988 to sign up or if you have questions.

Keep track of concerts and other late-breaking activities on the website: http://www.pointrichmond.com/methodist/

POINT METHODIST CHURCH HISTORY

Mid Dornan

Church history is rich with contributions of women. One church group in the 1920s was the SOCIAL LEAGUE of the First Methodist Episcopal Church whose history is reflected in their minutes printed below and taken from the canvass covered, red leather cornered notebook which cost $1.15. The minutes are printed as written. This is the 72nd installment.

AUG 14, 1928

The Social League met in M.E. parlors. A luncheon was given to the Winning side from a recent contest before we closed league for vacation.

Womens Westside Improvement Club members enjoyed their monthly luncheon on Tuesday, May 6, 2008. Fellowship Hall at the Methodist Church was colorfully decorated and lunch was graciously supported by our hostesses Peggy Fowler, Arpha MacIntyre and Alice Zeier.

Following lively banter at lunch, the President, Margaret Morkowski called the business meeting to order, welcoming members and guests to the group. There were no minutes to approve, so the membership proceeded to listen attentively to the very positive report from Treasurer Sonja Darling, who has methodically tracked WWIC expenses, separating the routine items from Centennial budget items. As an explanation of Centennial expenses, Margaret displayed items available for sale as fundraisers. They include WWIC Key Chains ($5), Shopping Bags ($8), and Teacups ($15). Many members purchased their WWIC items immediately.

Under old business, Margaret provided a reminder announcement about our table at the Point Richmond Stroll on Thursday, May 15, and asked members to fill the sign-up slots for the event. Centennial Committee reports were received, updating us on activities related to Teacup/Souvenirs (see samples, and buy some!!), the Cookbook (recipes are being typed up), Tours & Shows (a May event for 4th graders at Washington Elementary featuring the history of The Point…and WWIC right along with it!).

At last, the hotly anticipated election of officers for the 2008-2009 year commenced. After some questions from members, a unanimous vote confirmed the nomination slate to much applause.

The regular acknowledgment of birthdays proceeded, for May including: Norma Wallace (20th), Lauren Mcleod (21st), Linda Duste (25th), and Marge Miller (26th).

The next WWIC meeting is the much-anticipated “Hat Day” on Tuesday, June 10 (again, the crossover of polling location with our lunch location, and the key volunteers require pushback of the meeting from the regular first Tuesday schedule). Members either bring either a Pot Luck item (salad or dessert) and $5 donation, or contribute a $10 donation to this fundraising event.

Announcements included: Monday, May 12, the City of Richmond Historic Preservation Awards will feature Donna Roselius and the (saving of the) Trainmaster’s Station, now home to The Mechanics Bank. Thursday, May 15, PRBA sponsors the Stroll! Be seen strolling, or …there is no other option! Saturday, May 17, The Mechanics Bank celebrates the opening of its new branch with a Community Open House featuring a live Dixieland band and refreshments. (NB: For those who attended, the vast amounts of hot dogs, ice cream and other treats offered created a wonderful opportunity to sit on the beautiful lawn with neighbors or make new friends. Rumor as it at least one Neighborhood Watch group is forming as a result….)

And a very busy day in the Point, Sunday, May 18: Our Lady of Mercy hosts a Pancake Breakfast fundraiser from 9 – noon, followed by the Point Richmond History Association Annual Meeting at the Community Center 2-4pm, followed by Pastor Dan’s solo piano concert at the 1st United Methodist Church at 5pm.

Have a great summer, stay safe and … “see you, in September.”
Betty Dornan and her family moved to the Point in 1932. Betty was already familiar with everything in the Point because her family often visited her grand-parents on her Mother’s side, since they lived here in the Point. Betty and her family lived on Montana Avenue and then moved to 205 Cottage Avenue. Betty remembers the kids going over to the Santa Fe Railroad and sliding down the water slide. Then they would walk over to the beach and turn over the rocks looking for baby crabs and to see what they could find. Then the kids would walk through the tunnel to go swimming at the “Bath House” (the Plunge.) The Bath House was free for girls on Wednesdays for 2 hours and on Thursdays the boys got in free for 2 hours. When you paid to get in to the Bath House, you could stay from 2 pm until 10 pm. Besides swimming, you
The May 15th Point Richmond 19th Annual Stroll was a great success. One of the highlights was the Richmond Police Activities League (PAL) fund raising event called “Get-Out-of-Jail.” Fifteen “notorious citizens” of the city, including the Chief of Police, Chris Magnus and Marsha Tomassi, President of the Point Richmond Business Association (PRBA) “dressed accordingly,” went to jail and raised funds for the completion of the PAL Gym complex on 23rd Street. The entire crowd had lots of fun with bailing prisoners out of the jail, dancing to the six bands and visiting with folks from the 35 businesses and 25 non-profit organizations who participated. Thanks to all who joined in the fun. See you next year. For info, please call Marsha Tomassi, President of the PRBA at 215-6133.

Next up in the Summer Fun is the Point Richmond Summer Concert Series. This year the committee will be hosting 5 Friday-Night Concerts from 5:30 pm – 8:00 pm. Each concert will highlight a different type of music. June 13th is Blues and Blues Rock, July 11th is Jazz Night, August 8th is Americana Night, September 12th is Blues Night and September 26th is Latin Night. Set aside some time before and after each concert to visit the stores and restaurants in town. Invite all your friends and come enjoy the music. Call Andrew Butt at 236-7435 for more info.

Also mark your calendars this summer for the Point Richmond Neighborhood Council - National Night Out on August 5th and the PRBA’s Indian Statue Day on September 20th. As always, it’s going to be a great summer in the Point.

Point Richmond’s Historic Our Lady of Mercy Church will be continuing their monthly Pancake Breakfast fund raisers during the summer. If you enjoy pancakes, eggs, sausages, bacon, fruit, coffee, tea and juice stop by the Church Hall. The donation is $8.00 and we serve breakfast from 9:00 am to Noon on the third Sunday of the Month. Come and join us on Sundays - June 15th, July 20th, August 20th and September 21st. Call 232-1843 for info.

This Point.....in time
Masquers Theatre cautions that there is nudity and explicit language in The Full Monty, directed by John Maio. You’ve been warned. So buy tickets.

Perhaps because the show opens with a handsome nearly naked man, or perhaps because the women’s hooting wolf-whistles got my juices going, but I tended to focus on the acres of tantalizing male flesh, so I had trouble paying attention to the staging, the costumes, the storyline, et cetera.

Six unemployed steelworkers facing the daunting prospect of getting a job in a city with no jobs end up deciding to make some cash as male strippers. Photo by Jerry Telfer.

Jerry Lukowski (Todd Carver) is the ring-leader with best friend Dave as cohort. They are longtime friends, able to throw sharp (honest) remarks to each other, but are separated by the enormous difference in the people they have become. In real life, Jerry would be quite unlikable. He’s unemployed, behind in child support payments, and doesn’t seem to be looking for a job. He’s full of bravado and has big plans, none of which work out. Truthfully, he’s very confused about being unemployed and is secretly insecure. But in this story, he’s one of the heroes. He loves his kid—in fact, his son is more important than just about anything.

Moreover, Jerry has a great arse.

Dave Bukatinsky (Tucker Matthews) is a good sidekick (nearly totally obedient despite his qualms), reminding me of friends from my Great Lakes area high school years. His rare assertions of his own opinions pop up in amusing ways. Dave has troubles of his own, though he’s a good man—he’s the only character who goes out of his way to help his wife manage the house. Dave starts out luke-warm and ends up an attractive character (inside and out).

Noah “Horse” Simmonds (Wendell H. Wilson) gave a stunning performance, funny and touching. Horse’s body language was eloquent, especially when he began removing his clothes. You’ve heard about black men? There’s even a song about black men and, under his clothes, this body builder gives promise of everything you could wish for.

Kyle Johnson as Malcolm MacGregor was both funnier and sadder than recent performances—showing Kyle’s increasing dramatic range. Malcolm is a sheltered, unhappy fellow with no friends until he meets up with this like-minded gang of frustrated men bent on turning their lives around.

Ethan Girard (Greg Milholland) adds a little mania to the story as the resident loon (a rôle Greg looks like he particularly enjoys). While others express shyness, he is willing to take his clothes off anytime anywhere. Ethan is awkward, clumsy, and socially inept but eventually he does develop purpose in the play. Surprisingly, I found him most deliciously sexy standing in the rain fully dressed.

Harold Nichols (Chaz. Simonds) is a man cut from a different cloth—he’s a white collar guy, with more education, and (once) with more money. He’s the only man who finds humour in their predicament though he too hides his personal fears. As the other men’s former supervisor, he’s used to being in charge but he does a poor job at getting the men’s chorus line together. And this is but one of his failures.

These six unemployed men are goaded on their way by the proximity of a professional stripper, the gorgeous Buddy “Keno” Walsh (Casey Bair). This model stripper gives a flash of what these boys can aspire to (when he isn’t being sarcastic).
Nathan (Lucas Haley Masch) is Jerry Lukowski’s ten year old son. Nath is sweet, sincere, loving and conflicted—quite a mature and exemplary performance!

Georgie Bukatinsky (Sara Breindel) is the fullest, most realized female character. She’s a blue collar wife, getting a little racy on Girls Night Out. Georgie is pretty frustrated with her life—she’s tried several remedies but nothing much helps—until her husband hands the solution to her in a thong, er, song.

Pam Lukowski (Steph Peek) is the ex-wife of our leading man. With long purposeful strides and elegant model-like poses, she takes command of the stage. Though incredibly gorgeous, she’s brittle and chilly. In reality, we would probably agree with her position as Nath’s mother, but she seems too hard. Eventually, though, she’s every bit as supportive as the other wives.

Vicki Nichols (Lisa Lindsley) begins as a foolish bimbette enjoying her rôle as a Lady Who Lunches, offering a dazzling performance in the song Life With Harold. When tragedy later unfolds, she returns to earth and becomes a more tolerable person.

Estelle Genovese (Patty Penrod) is a coarse, in-your-face kinda girl. And she’s bold—vamping all the men within sight. When I first caught sight of Estelle, I marvelled at the luck of the casting director in finding such a perfect person for the rôle, but I now realize Estelle is the pinnacle of theatre arts: the culmination of the actress’s skill, her costumer and director.

Jeanette Burmeister (Anna Albanese) is my vote for Best Actress. She’s a droll, crazy old dame with no compunction in reminding us of her past showbiz glories. Though she’s a little tattered around the edges, we know that she still knows how to bring an audience (and a man) to its knees.

Chorus members, Susan Hershey (Linda Woody-Wood) and Joanie Lisb (Marisa Barley or Sue Claire Jones) are dressed with an extra soupcon of provocativeness for Girls Night Out. George Doerr plays Reg Willoughby & Tony Giordano. As Tony, the nightclub owner, he is flamboyant and foolish. A sight to behold! Teddy Slaughter (Bob Galagaran) is the new boyfriend of Todd’s ex-wife (and potential new custodian of Todd’s son), a man we’re destined to dislike. John Wilson flits across the stage in a flutter of minor persons: Gary, the Repo man, the minister and the Sergeant.

The main men start off on the sorry side of a family squabble: unemployed, depressed and struggling for their dignity. None of the men is supported by his family; the wives, mother and child want them to get a job. Each man must challenge his fears. Which he does. In amusing ways. Triumphantly. And for voyeuristic connoisseurs of male pulchritude, it’s just the ticket!

would up to the “second balcony” and watch the people swim. This period was during the depression and no one could imagine why people wanted to build homes out on Cypress Point… but they did. For fun, Betty’s brother would get cardboard boxes and use them to slide down the hills.

At the Firehouse/Jail on Park Place, the firemen had trained their dog to climb the fire ladder. And when the Police arrested someone, all-of-a-sudden the kids “appeared” just to watch the action. The barber gave the kids a nickel after they got their hair cut. There was one man who looked a lot like Santa Claus who stood in front of the grocery store. He had a curl in the middle of his forehead and people would take pictures of him.

Mary Bianchini Highfill and her family came to the Point in 1924. Her family had lived in Fort Bragg but they needed to move because of her brother’s ill health. The family lived in San Francisco, then moved to Crocket and then to the Point. Their first house was over where the Sewerage Plant is now. Richfield Oil owned the property and 1928 the family had to move, so they bought a house on Casey Avenue. It cost $1,000. With the depression, her Dad was without a job and at the age of 13, it was the only time Mary ever say her Dad cry. It was hard on her. Her Dad looked hard for a job. For about a year, he would walk to Oakland everyday to see if he could find a work.

There were few homes in the Point, Mary said it was like a “play-land.” The kids could rent a boat from Bonno and go out into the Bay. One time Mary’s Brother took a sheet, climbed up to Water Street to see if he could “fly.” Mary told her Mother “The only reason I’m here is to watch my Brother.” There weren’t many trees around the Point… they would planted later. Fall was wine-making time, so Mary and her family would go from house to house to help make the wine. Mary said… “I wouldn’t trade my childhood for anything they have today.”

Bruce Bartram said that in addition to the Plunge, there were 6 places to go swimming around the Point. They included the Brickyard area beach near where Ship Yard 3 and the Brickyard Cove Condos were later built. That was a great place if you had a bike. There was Keller Beach and then at low-tide you could walk over to Kozy-Kove. Then there was “Cappy’s Beach” down by the Long Wharf. And about half-mile farther, near the Blake Brothers, was a great beach. Finally there was a beach at Shrimp Camp at Point Molate, near the site where the Whaling Station was later built. It smelled a lot at that beach.

Bruce said there were 3 Ferries while he was growing up. The Santa Fe Rail Road sent their rail cars to San Francisco on barges from Ferry Point. The Southern Pacific ran a passenger and car ferry from the foot of Garrard (now Dornan Drive) to San Francisco that operated until the Bay Bridge was built. Then there was the Richmond/San Rafael Auto and Passenger Ferry that kids could sneak onto and ride back and forth all day long for free. That Ferry closed down in 1956.

All the kids used to roller-skate up and down the streets. And Bruce met a lot of people since he delivered the “Post Inquirer” newspaper. He delivered the paper to the spacious hospital on Standard Avenue where a nurse was in residence and a Doctor was on call. There was a horse stable across the street from the hospital. Bruce also mentioned that the Chinese fishermen spread out their shrimp dry on the flats near Cutting Avenue.

George LeRoy Williams moved to the Point in 1923 when he was a year old. He and his family lived on Washington Ave. and then move over to the “Mud Flats” by Garrard and Cutting Avenues. From there they moved to the old Lee house on Montana Avenue where LeRoy remembers killing sparrows with a bee-bee gun.

LeRoy remembers the Principal at Washington School was Mr. Peterson and that the boys would play baseball, football and basketball after school. During the summer they would do all kinds of things with the Parks and Recreation Department. LeRoy’s best friends were Bob Dornan, Ross and Kenny. One of the boys was hit by a car while sliding down the Washington Avenue Hill and his head landed six inches from the fire hydrant. Dr. Lucas said how lucky the boy was not to hit his head. After a while LeRoy and his family moved to El Cerrito and that whole summer he peddled his bike back to the Point to play with his friends. LeRoy said that the Point was a great place to raise kids. Even after all of these years he still likes to come back and visit old friends.

Memories of the Second World War in the Richmond Area

Dr. Thompson was born in Point Richmond on February 17, 1909. He grew up in the Point, attended Washington Elementary School and graduated from Richmond High School in 1926, attended U.C. Berkeley and in 1929 at the age of 20 was admitted to the UCSF Medical School. He completed his medical school in 1933 and interned at Highland Hospital before joining the Civilian Conservation Corp. as a contract surgeon for the Army. Dr. Thompson practiced medicine for 39 years in Richmond, we are lucky to be the recipient of his written memories of his life in Point Richmond. This is a reprint of his gift to all of us. We will reprint his entire series. Thank you Dr. Thompson!

Part Three

Nursing service was poor, not because of incompetence but because of a shortage of nurses. Those working did heroic work. The government was partly responsible for this. All salaries were set by government orders and the lowest salary scale of all were nurses. The cleaning women in the hospitals got more. The reason for this was to try and force them into the service. Women were not drafted so they could not force them in. The low salary method did not work. They usually left the hospital and went to work in the shipyards at more than twice the pay, usually for less work. One nurse employed in our office for 150 dollars a month, the allowed wage, quit and went to the shipyards for 450 dollars a month. All she had to do there was to walk around wearing a metal hat and look for unsafe things.

During the war most of us had to do work usually done by specialists such as neuron-surgery and orthopedics. More specialists than general men were taken into the army. At the Richmond Hospital we had only one nurse anesthetist so we had to do much of our surgery under local or spinal anesthesia. Even so the anesthetist was badly over worked being on call for all emergencies day and night. At times a few of us would get together and give anesthesia for a day so she could get a day off. Laboratory technicians were also in short supply. My future wife was a technician at the Richmond Hospital and at one time for several weeks she was the only technician in the lab. In addition to heavy day load of lab work she had to do all night and week and emergency work. It was quite a strain.

Black outs made some trouble especially for maternity cases. During a black out one could not drive to the hospital when called. Often if a woman was in labor at night we would stat at the hospital. Dr. Boomer lived only a few blocks from the hospital and solved the problem by walking over. He would come when needed for any doctor on the staff that was unable to come. Fortunately blackouts were few and not of long duration. On one occasion I was caught in a black out only a few blocks from by office. I turned out my lights and crept along to the office. There I could enter an X-ray dark room where I could turn on the lights. I read until the “all clear” sounded.

Maternity work was heavy at Richmond Hospital. We were delivering 150 to 200 cases a month. Hospital stay had to be correspondingly short. There was only one delivery room and one minor surgery which could be used so deliveries often had to be completed in labor rooms or other rooms. I recall delivering a baby on a cot in the hall... before the elevator during visiting hours with only some screens around. However we had few complications.

Traffic at peak hours was terrible especially at times of shift changes at the shipyards and in spite of gas rationing. When I was living in Point Richmond I was called one morning for a delivery at Albany Hospital right at the time of the morning shift change. Going out Cutting Blvd. I met the traffic head on and was stalled in what is now called a gridlock. It took me over an hour to get to the Albany Hospital and by the time the baby had long been born. Fortunately Dr. McNerny had been there and took care of the delivery. We often had to take one another’s work when one of us was tied up.

I recall another stupid traffic snarl in Point Richmond during the late afternoon shift change at the Standard Oil Company. A Santa Fe freight train was switching back and forth completely obstructing traffic on both Standard and Richmond Avenues. There were two lanes in each direction all of which were obstructed. This would have been no problem except that impatient drivers from both directions pulled into the opposite lanes. When the crossing was eventually cleared there were 4 lanes of traffic each head on with lanes from the opposite direction. It took an hour or more to straighten out the tangle. The 4 to 12 shift at the Standard Oil Company must have been in deep trouble that day.

Point Richmond was less affected by the crowding than was the Cutting Blvd. area. In the Point there was little room for efficient government housing except for Esmeralda Village and the canal area. The canal apartments were built in the triangle between Cutting Blvd. and Garrard Blvd. I noted on several occasions during black outs that these apartments remained brilliantly lighted.

Unbeknown to many people the army had lookout stations and antiaircraft batteries on the ridge south of Nichol Nob. Evidences of these structures can still be seen. There were under ground dugouts and concrete gun emplacements. The present road to the top of this ridge from East Richmond Avenue was made at that time to make and serve these emplacements. These evidently were to protect the shipyards should need arrive. Some similar facilities were also located in the Berkeley Hills. After the war these were all destroyed but traces still remain.

The inner harbor was a busy place during the ship building years. About one ship a day was being launched. These were constructed in parts in

Evan Griffins’ 1938 Memoirs

Thanks to Bruce Beyaert for getting this to us and to Suzanne Loosen for recommending it.

Mr. Griffins’ memoirs go beyond the scope of Point Richmond and much is before the Point was populated but it is nevertheless an interesting account of the history of our region. We will publish it in several parts.

The adjoining property was owned by my father Owen Griffins. He sold one-half to Chas. Mayborn who later sold it to C.L. Watrous, who married my sister, Betsy. This section is known as the Griffins-Watrous tract. The next placed was purchased by L.D. Reynolds who later sold it to John R. Nystrom who married my sister, Mary. The Nystrom holdings were among the first subdivisions of the San Pablo Rancho. The above three parcels of land was the first Tewksbury sale conveyed to W. Fleming by a specified bargain and sale meets and bounds deed which guaranteed to the purchaser that described land at the specified area.

The Nicholl Ranch was divided into two parts by Macdonald Avenue, the northern portion extending from Macdonald Avenue to a point just north of Ohio Street and from 23rd to 34th Streets, in which Metropolitan square, the Nicholl home reservation and Nicholl Park are located. The northern section south to Grant west to 30th, then south to Macdonald Avenue. 23rd Street was the west line of both sections. This tract is now the Nicholl Macdonald tract. 30th Street was a road leading from Macdonald Avenue to Grant, branching at 34th and Grant, one of which continued into the Boyd Ranch, the other going 34th and after various turns finally connected with San Pablo Avenue at the old San Pablo School site.

East of 30th Street between Macdonald Avenue and Grant Street, extending east to include Mira Vista was the John Davis Ranch. The Mira Vista section was considered worthless, used only for pasture.

There was a four hundred acre tract between the Wood and Seaver holding and the Stege ranch facing on the present site of Macdonald Avenue and extending to the bay in possession of John Nicholl, but claimed by Dr. Tewksbury, know as the Morgan Ranch. The house was on Potrero Avenue near the Southern Pacific tracks and was kept tenanted by Nicholl. This resulted in a long and famous lawsuit which was concluded by Tewksbury winning the case. The south eastern part of the Stege Ranch was sold in 1868 or 1869 to H.H. Rockfellow. It was acquired by George W. Haight in 1886, who was an attorney at law in San Francisco. He was also a nephew of ex-Governor Haight, who served in the early days of California statehood.

The town of Gallagher derived its name from the Right Reverend Father Galagher; a very influential priest in San Francisco who owned the property on the north side of Fairmont Avenue facing San Pablo Avenue and extended eastward to include part of what is now Sunset View Cemetery. On this ranch, his sister, Mrs. McAvoy, raised here large family. The house still stands to the left of Fairmont Avenue near the cemetery lines.

Rancho San Pablo at the county line was the home of Victor Castro in my day. He was the brother of Mrs. Juan B. Alvarado.

The property north of Fink Lane was owned by John and William Galvin, Captain James Gill and Meyew. Mrs. Gill was Meyhew’s daughter.

The land north of Mira Vista to the San Pablo Dam road was all in possession of Tewksbury. My readers may think from the frequent mention of the name Tewksbury that he was the largest owner in the San Pablo Rancho. This, however, was not the case. He acquired the Joaquin Y. Castro interest which, according to deed of partition, was one-eighth of the said rancho. In the final settlement this one-eighth was reduced to one-twenty-seconds.

What is not the Richmond Farm Creamery or the Skow place was owned by Colonel May whose house was far above the present Skow dairy house. The road leading to it is still in evidence. I was brought us in the belief that he was a Colonel in the confederate army, consequently a southern sympathizer, hence the isolation.

Across the San Pablo Creek from the Tewksbury holding, were the homes of Weber, Wolf, Franks and Herman, now the J.J. Jerome intended amusement part site. On the left had of San Pablo Avenue, going toward Pinole wher the Quaylis, Machado, White Rumrill, Repos, Goodale and Herny Benson ranches. The most important of all these places was the Rumrill home, as it was there; people were in the habit of going, seeking Mr. Rumrill’s advice and to enjoy the wonderful hospitality of himself and his admirable wife. I recall many happy visits as a young man with his congenial family.

The Andrade tract was owned by men whom I know as Manuel Garcia, Antonio P. Silva and Manuel Aguair. The section north of the Barrett home place was owned by McGon, Porero and Lucas. John Perez bought the Porero property. Mrs. Lucas was a daughter of Porero. Most of these holdings are now in the Turpin addition. North Richmond was known as the Charles Shimmons place. Another holding in this locality was the Guitiorrez Ranch. (I cannot vouch for the spelling of this name.)

The Moeker tract on the south side of town was originally owned by Tewksbury, as also the property on which the Santa Fe shops now stand. The city of Richmond tract west of 10th Street was the George Barrett place. The home stood where the Elks Building is now. East of 10th Street to 23rd Street was occupied by Job Whipple, afterward purchased by Barrett. His house was at 23rd and Barrett.

Joseph Emoric was the possessor of the tract that bears his name. His house and gardens were another show place in the vicinity. He was a great traveler and his gardens were filled with birds and animals of many species. The peacocks and deer created the most excitement. The Alvarado home is till in existence in the rear of the Bolding store, in the town of San Pablo. I have a very vivid memory of this estimable family. One of the sons, the late Honorable Judge Henry V. Alvarado was governor of California from 1832-1836. In connection with this family, I wish to express my appreciation and feeling for the late Judge. I regarded him during my early school days as a good, true and just friend, always ready to protect the younger scholars from the bullying of the older ones, who seemed to me to delight in seeing me become enraged and finally reduced to utter despair. My judgment was correct. Throughout his entire life he was in sympathy with the oppressed and a defender of right and just in his dealings with the world at large. He possessed the qualifications of which real judges are made. The word justice was not an unmeaning word to his lips, but the sentiment of his heart and the practice of his life.

Among other residents of San Pablo was T.J. Wright, who had a general merchandise store. Another, the Chevcsich family whose oldest girl, Anita is the widow of the late Judge H.V. Alvarado. Mrs. Masterson (nee Antono) ran the San Pablo Hotel. Bouquot ran the blacksmith shop, as did A.F. Dyer, who for many years was justice of the peace. Lizzie Bouquot married the late E.M. Downer. There was an old building at the junction of the San Pablo dam road and San Pablo Avenue called the Borkshire house. The Protestant Church was about half way between the Wild Cat Creek and the Alvarado home in the rear of which was the Protestant cemetery. My father and four brothers were among the many interred there. This cemetery was abandoned in the early 90’s. In 1905, the church on the present site was erected.

MUSEUM VISITORS

A thank you to Margaret Morkowski, museum staff coordinator, for seeing our small but informative museum is open every week all year. When reviewing the guest book at our History Museum, it is rewarding to see from where visitors come.

This past year visitors that signed our book were from: El Salvador, Central America, from the states of Wisconsin, Ohio, North Carolina, Oregon, New York, Virginia and Washington D.C..

Mr. Rust brought 80 students from Ford Elementary School who stopped in on their nature walk. Fourth graders from Washington School stopped on their historic tour of the Point. Again, more of our Point residents continue to enjoy our museum and services.

Visitors from other parts of California: Albany, Alameda, Antioch, Berkeley, Burlingame, Concord, Daly City, El Cerrito, El Sobrante, Hercules, Kensington, Lafayette, Mount Shasta, Morgan Hill, Oakland, Orinda, Pacific Grove, Pinole, Redding, Redwood City, San Francisco, Sausalito, San Jose, San Mateo, San Rafael, San Pablo, San Ramon, Tiburon, Vacaville, and Weed.
DEATHS…..

Lourn Phelps former Police Chief in Richmond, died May 22, 2008 in Florence Oregon. Lourn was born in Rio Linda, near Sacramento, in 1924. He attended Grant Union High School and after graduation, during WWII, he joined the U S Army Air Corp. He served in Italy as a tail gunner on B 17’s. After the war he attended U C Berkeley where he earned a Bachelor and a Masters Degrees in Criminal Justice. He joined the Richmond Police Department and served with Pt. Richmonders Bob Woods, Faye Hawkins, Bill Williamson, Jack Mangan, and Bob Peckham.

While working his way up in the department, he and my late husband, Frank Pearson worked in Pt. Richmond in their off shift hours pouring many slabs of concrete at local homes. They had many stories to tell about their adventures in Pt. Richmond. The one story I remember was the incident of an overturned concrete truck at the Tedrick house. He was known and liked by many people in Pt. Richmond during the 1960’s and early 70’s.

Lourn was lavish in his praise of Lucretia Edwards, who served on the Police Personnel Board during Lourn’s tenure as chief. He considered her a very fair person during some difficult times in Richmond. Lucretia told me she also had great respect for him. He had to retire as chief after he suffered a major heart attack. He went on to teach at Delta College in Stockton, where he met his wife, Nancy. He retired from teaching and they moved to Florence Oregon in 1990. He is survived by his wife Nancy and daughter Destiny in Oregon and by his children Erick Brian Chris and Linda, and Nancy’s children Wade, Karen and Lance.

Melba Farley, 91, after a brief illness, passed away peacefully at her Ocean Avenue home in Point Richmond on May 25, 2008. Melba lived in Richmond for 70 years. She was an active member of the historic Point Methodist Church, a member of the Craft Group and Book Club. Melba was also a member of the Point Richmond History Association. Her beloved husband, Lloyd, preceded her in death. Melba is survived by a daughter, Judith Buhlis, of Point Richmond and a son Arthur Farley of Newport Beach CA. She also is survived by 3 grandchildren and her pride and joy, 2 great grandsons. Memorial services will be held on Sunday, June 22, 2008, at 2:00 pm. at the Point United Methodist Church followed by a reception at the Ocean Avenue home of her daughter, Judith.
Memories from Erica (Sweeting) Goode

Dear Point Richmond People,

I really wanted to have come on Sunday (5/18 Annual Meeting) but Barry, my husband, is a judge, and was marrying our former pediatrician and his wife in Berkeley, I had to be there!

But I am in the stage of my life (winding down a 28 year career in medicine) where I am very interested in hearing other’s stories about the Point. I would love to know if any old buddies are still around. I remember a lot (tendency from my father), who built our house and lived to 99½. After widowed, he lived with us in the Cypress Point Road home that he had built in 1941. He was such an early member of Kaiser that his number was 000000872!

We have long video recordings of his recollections of the Point and the Bay Area. He was in Architecture and UC Berkeley; graduated in 1930, when nobody was building anything. His first job; (the only one in his class who got a job at all) was doing store displays and dressing windows at Capwell’s in San Francisco. He took the ferry, and remembered how lovely it smelled as he debarked, Maxwell House was roasting each morning and the aroma reached the Ferry Building in the wind. He was able to eat a one dish meal, with ample rice and tea for 19¢ in Chinatown. But because of the depression, he didn’t marry my mother until 1939, and was able to build our house in 1941. The war necessitated some skimpy materials, even though Pear Harbor was yet to be bombed, the interior walls were plywood and yet the outside is heartwood redwood.

I attended Nystrom pre-school, surrounded by shipyard workers’ kids, before kindergarten at Washington. I recall learning some racy words; having the art project ladies helping with watercolors on easels, having nap time, and the day that Roosevelt died, I heard the teachers discussing it, and I burst into tears, since I had, with my sister Shari, been urged to be very quiet during his Fireside Chats on the radio. We both received stars on charts when we got through his whole speech without talking. I loved his voice, and I think the head teacher noticed my distress, because I recall her carrying me around until my mother came to get me.

Kids in the neighborhood when I was 4 or 5 were pretty limited; a boy named Garth lived across from Shaw Beach (Kozy Kove), as we called it. My closer buddies were Nicky and Steve Vaughan, and I spent a good amount of free time climbing our fence to visit with them and their mom, Adele. They had rabbits, chickens, wonderful songfests at night with various UC Berkeley friends. We did wonderful things in the yard, including clipping a long boxwood hedge into a train. Each of them did an end (locomotive and caboose), we kids did boxcars (not hard to mess up a boxcar).

Mostly the empty fields of grass, the trees, and the beaches were our playground. We helped with herring runs, managed not to fall off cliffs, and gradually several girls and boys emerged as playmates.

But I am so sorry not to have heard other stories, and to have a chance to ask if others have kept up with children I remember; Linda Moore, Sydney Miller, and others. One friend, Charlene Brown, from the 4th grad on, did move to Pasadena where I lived in high school (although she didn’t arrive until well into the ‘60’s, with her family). She and I were in contact through the early ‘90’s, and I am afraid she may have died of viral cardiomyopathy, which had severely limited her last years. None of my recent cards or notes have come back, or been answered.

Please let me know when the next gathering will occur (I hope you will do this again). I will be there!

Thank you,
Erica (Sweeting) Goode
